Digital items

Registered Readers can access the following digital items:

- Newspaper titles digitised as part of the British Newspapers Archive \(BNA\)
- Books digitised by Google.
- All digital items available to guest users

Newspaper titles in the British Newspaper Archive (BNA)

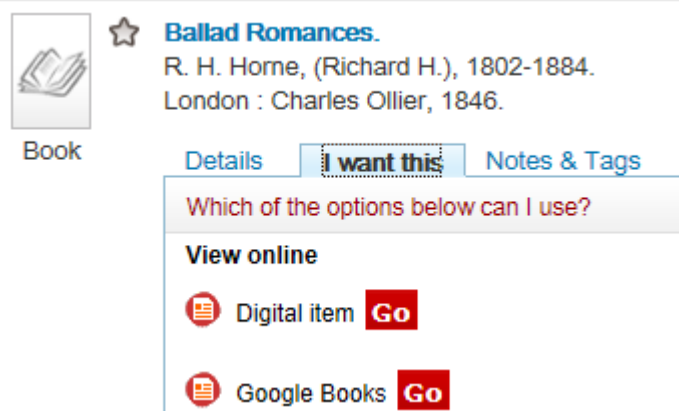

Access to BNA content is free in the British Library but you must register separately to use BNA content, and you have to log in separately to the archive.

When the BNA window opens, DO NOT log in straightaway. Click on the thumbnail of your selected newspaper. You will then be prompted to log in, and when you have done so, you will be returned to your selected newspaper. If you log in straightaway, you will be returned to the BNA homepage, not the link you want and you will have to search again for the item you require.

Note: Not all of our newspaper collection has been digitised. Where a title is available in the BNA you may find that not all of our holdings for that title have been digitised.

Books digitised by Google

250,000 books from our collections, in English and other European languages dated 1700 to 1870, are being digitised by Google. If you find a record for one of these item whilst using the Library's PCs in our Reading Rooms you will see two links to the item:

Search for

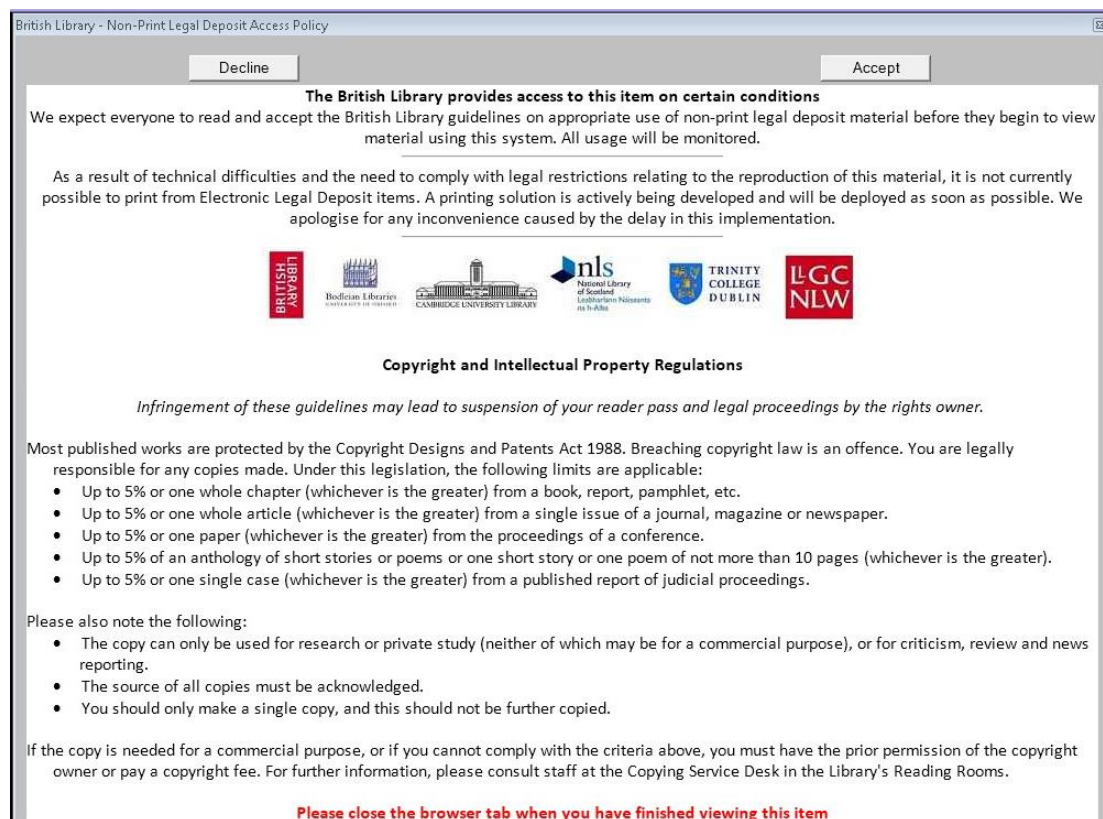

🔍 Article records: online content only available in Reading Rooms Go

NB: Alternately search by article title or author.

If you click Go the system should perform a search of the title's (electronic) ISSN and the results found would be the non-print legal deposit article records, from which you can view the content. However a system fault means a search for the print title's ISSN is conducted and the article level records found are for our printed items.

To find the non-print legal deposit article records, do a manual search using the (electronic) ISSN, found in the Details tab.

Click Go to access the content from non-print legal deposit article and book records and a new window will open; after a little while the non-print legal deposit guidelines are presented:

British Library - Non-Print Legal Deposit Access Policy

Decline Accept

The British Library provides access to this item on certain conditions

We expect everyone to read and accept the British Library guidelines on appropriate use of non-print legal deposit material before they begin to view material using this system. All usage will be monitored.

As a result of technical difficulties and the need to comply with legal restrictions relating to the reproduction of this material, it is not currently possible to print from Electronic Legal Deposit items. A printing solution is actively being developed and will be deployed as soon as possible. We apologise for any inconvenience caused by the delay in this implementation.

Copyright and Intellectual Property Regulations

Infringement of these guidelines may lead to suspension of your reader pass and legal proceedings by the rights owner.

Most published works are protected by the Copyright Designs and Patents Act 1988. Breaching copyright law is an offence. You are legally responsible for any copies made. Under this legislation, the following limits are applicable:

- Up to 5% or one whole chapter (whichever is the greater) from a book, report, pamphlet, etc.
- Up to 5% or one whole article (whichever is the greater) from a single issue of a journal, magazine or newspaper.
- Up to 5% or one paper (whichever is the greater) from the proceedings of a conference.
- Up to 5% of an anthology of short stories or poems or one short story or one poem of not more than 10 pages (whichever is the greater).
- Up to 5% or one single case (whichever is the greater) from a published report of judicial proceedings.

Please also note the following:

- The copy can only be used for research or private study (neither of which may be for a commercial purpose), or for criticism, review and news reporting.
- The source of all copies must be acknowledged.
- You should only make a single copy, and this should not be further copied.

If the copy is needed for a commercial purpose, or if you cannot comply with the criteria above, you must have the prior permission of the copyright owner or pay a copyright fee. For further information, please consult staff at the Copying Service Desk in the Library's Reading Rooms.

Please close the browser tab when you have finished viewing this item

You must accept the guidelines presented to access the content.

Note: The Library is monitoring all printing from this content. Infringement of the guidelines may lead to the suspension of your Reader Pass, and legal proceedings by the website owner.

When the download is complete (which may take a few seconds the first time you open a session), you will see the item on screen.

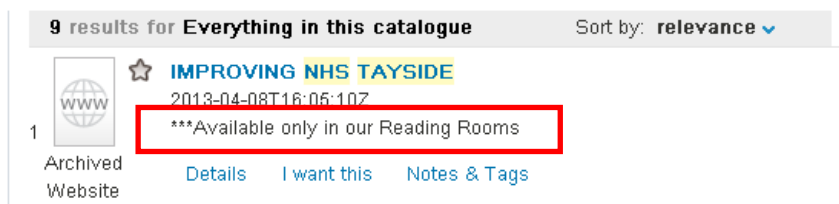

When you have finished looking at the content, close down the window by clicking on the  in the top right hand of the window.

You will be asked to confirm that you want to close down the session; click on Leave page to exit the session and return to Explore the British Library.

Note: The legislation stipulates that only one person at a time can view any piece of legal deposit content. You will be advised if someone else is looking at the item you wish to view. Once the other person has finished with the item and closed it down, you will be able to view it. There is no limit on the length of time a reader may consult this material. It is not possible to reserve non-print legal deposit content in advance of your visit to the Library.

Audio items

A small number of audio items have been added to the Library's Jukebox. These items can be accessed directly from the catalogue record, if using a Library PC in our Reading Rooms. The link to the audio content is seen on the right-hand side of the Details tab:

The screenshot shows a library catalogue record for an audio item. On the left, there is an 'Audio' icon (a speaker) and a star icon. The title is 'Colliery interior' with a yellow highlight, followed by 'Colliery interior' and 'Recording'. Below the title are three tabs: 'Details' (selected), 'I want this', and 'Notes & Tags'. To the right of the tabs is a 'Send to' button with a dropdown arrow. The main content area contains the following information: 'Title: Colliery interior', 'Rights: Film Sound Effects Ltd., Twickenham Studios, St. Margaret's, Twickenham, Middlesex, TW1 2AW', 'Place Name: High House Colliery, Ayrshire, UK', and 'Description: Sound description: Colliery. Interior of pit head winding gear engine room. The cage is raised then lowered'. On the right side of the record, there is a 'Links' box with two links: '> Play this (at British Library only)' and '> Report Catalogue Error'. The 'Links' box is highlighted with a red border.

If there is no link in the Details tab, the I want this tab has a link to a document explaining how to access the item, click Go to read the document:

Digital items

A range of digital items are available, including:

- Approximately 100,000 nineteenth century books were digitised by Microsoft as part of a project; two options to view the content are presented.

- 250,000 books from our collections, in English and other European languages dated 1700 to 1870, are being digitised by Google. You can view the items in Google Books.
- Some of the world's oldest surviving volumes of printed music were digitised as part of an Early Music Online project in conjunction with JIC and the Royal Holloway University of London (RHUL). You can view the content in the RHUL repository.
- 190,000 electronic versions of 100,000 EU Bookshop items, dating back to 1952, in more than 50 languages. PDF and ebook versions are free to download.
- The Library has digitised some maps and made these available via our Online Gallery. These maps will have an image of the map as an icon and the link to the online map is found in the I want this tab:

Title: Integrating Image-Based Research Datasets into an Existing Digital Repository Infrastructure
Author: Tarver, Hannah ; Phillips, Mark Edward
In: Cataloging & Classification Quarterly, pp. 238-250
Subjects: Institutional Repositories ; Digital Libraries ; Grant Projects ; Digital Images ; Data Management
Language: English
Description: This article discusses integrating image-based research datasets into an existing digital repository infrastructure. In 2011, the University of North Texas (UNT) Libraries partnered with researchers in the university's academic departments to describe and provide access to items not traditionally included in the UNT Libraries' systems. Including more than 1,400 items apiece, the two projects are considered active datasets by their respective users. Each collection provided new challenges in harmonizing partner, metadata, and end-user
